To begin with, we started to plan how we would start our work, and we started by dividing the project into six main tasks

- 1- Login
- 2- upload item
- 3- purchase item
- 4- purchase history
- 5- view sales
- 6- Search item

My job was to manage the sales data and the search feature. I also played a big part in solving some tricky problems we faced.

Khalifa built the sign-in and item upload features. He also helped fix different problems that came up, making sure our project ran smoothly.

Omar was in charge of handling purchases and keeping track of what was bought. He put in much effort to sort out the tough parts and helped the rest of us when we needed it.

Collaboration was key to our project, especially with CSS. We tackled issues together and jointly crafted the design. Each team member brought unique ideas and problem-solving skills, allowing us to create a cohesive and functional design. Our teamwork in CSS really showed the strength of our collective effort. My group was helpful, and it was great to work with Omar and Khalifa.
